Module 1: Build the foundation

Before you create anything, use this module to get clear on why you're building a list, what it should lead to, and who you're actually making it for.

Fill in yourself

THE GOAL OF YOUR LIST

Complete: "I'm building an email list to help _____ with _____, and eventually invite them further into _____."

YOUR AUDIENCE

Who is the person your gift is made for? What is she trying to achieve? What's stopping her right now?

MULTIPLE INTERESTS

Do you work on several things? Write down the different interests your list might need to be split into.

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Why are you building an email list, and what do you hope it will help you with over the next six months?

Complete: "I'm building an email list to help _____ with _____, and eventually invite them further into _____."

Who is the person you're making the gift for, what is she trying to achieve, and what's stopping her right now?

Checklist for Module 1

- ☐ I know why I'm building an email list.
- ☐ I have decided what subscribers should eventually be led towards.
- ☐ I have created a simple audience profile.
- ☐ I know whether I need multiple interests or groups in my list.

This module's step

Write down your goal for the list in one sentence, and put it up somewhere you'll see it often.

Module 2: Find a lead magnet people actually want

A good lead magnet solves one specific problem quickly. Use this module to find the problem, the format, and to test the idea before you spend hours on it.

Fill in yourself

TEN QUESTIONS

Write down ten questions your audience often asks. Circle the one that can be answered fastest and most concretely.

CONNECT TO THE SALE

What will you sell eventually, and how can the lead magnet lead there naturally?

TEST THE IDEA

Write a short test post you can publish in a story or a post.

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Which problem in your audience is small and specific enough to become a lead magnet?

Which format fits best: PDF, checklist, template, video, or something else?

Which product will you sell eventually, and how can the lead magnet lead there naturally?

Checklist for Module 2

- ☐ I have found a specific, well-defined problem to solve.
- ☐ I have chosen a format that's quick for me to make.
- ☐ I have connected the lead magnet to something I'll sell later.
- ☐ I have tested the idea on real people.

This module's step

Publish your test post in a story or a post this week, and see what happens.

Module 3: Create the lead magnet

Now you build the gift itself: a clear title, simple content, tidy design, and a final quality check before it's published.

Fill in yourself

TITLE FORMULAS

Fill in: "Get [desired result] without [common obstacle]" and "[Number] simple ways to [result]".

THE FIVE PARTS

Sketch out a title, introduction, content, one action, and a path forward for your own gift.

CUT IT DOWN

What can you remove from the gift to make it simpler and quicker to use?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Sketch out the five parts your lead magnet needs: title, introduction, content, action, path forward.

Fill in all three title formulas with your own topic. Which one sounds most natural?

What will you deliberately cut to keep the gift simple and easy to use?

Checklist for Module 3

- ☐ I have a clear title that promises a result.
- ☐ The content is divided into short, clear sections.
- ☐ The design is readable and mobile-friendly.
- ☐ I have gone through the quality check before publishing.

This module's step

Set aside time this week to finish the gift itself, not just plan it.

Module 4: Create the sign-up page

The sign-up page has one single goal: getting people to sign up. Use this module to write the copy and remove everything that distracts.

Fill in yourself

THE TEMPLATE

Fill in: Headline "Get _____ and learn how to _____." Short description, three bullet points, and button text.

REMOVE NOISE

What does your page have today that you can remove to make it simpler?

THE THANK-YOU PAGE

What should your thank-you page say and offer right after sign-up?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Fill in the template: headline, short description, three bullet points, button text.

What can you remove from your page to make it simpler?

What should your thank-you page say and offer after sign-up?

Checklist for Module 4

- ☐ The page has a clear headline and an image of the gift.
- ☐ The page has only one choice: sign up.
- ☐ I have written a warm and useful thank-you page.
- ☐ Consent and privacy information are in place.

This module's step

Build your sign-up page today, even if it isn't perfect.

Module 5: Set up the system

All the parts need to connect automatically. Use this module to choose tools, ensure consent and privacy, and test the whole journey yourself.

Fill in yourself

THE SEVEN STEPS

Write out your own seven steps, from content to a relevant offer, in your own words.

CHOOSE A TOOL

Which email tool will you use, and which features do you need most?

TEST IT YOURSELF

What will you double-check when you test the whole customer journey with your own test address?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Sketch out your seven steps, from content to a relevant offer, in your own words.

Which email tool will you use, and which of its features do you need most?

What will you double-check when you test the whole customer journey yourself?

Checklist for Module 5

- ☐ I have chosen an email tool.
- ☐ The form, delivery and consent are set up.
- ☐ I have tested the whole journey with my own test address.
- ☐ The unsubscribe link and privacy policy work.

This module's step

Sign up to your own list today, and go through the whole journey as a stranger would.

Module 6: Create a welcome series that builds trust

Five short emails, sent automatically, can build trust faster than you think. Use this module to write your drafts.

Fill in yourself

EMAIL 1

Write a draft: welcome them, give access to the gift, tell them what to do first.

EMAIL 3

Which story from your own journey fits telling why you do this?

EMAIL 5

Which relevant offer will you present, and who is it for?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Write one draft of email 1: welcome and deliver the gift.

Which story from your own journey fits in email 3?

Which relevant offer will you present in email 5?

Checklist for Module 6

- ☐ I have written all five emails in the welcome series.
- ☐ The series is set up to send automatically.
- ☐ I have tested that the emails actually arrive.
- ☐ The tone is personal, not like an ad brochure.

This module's step

Finish writing one email in the series today, the rest can wait until tomorrow.

Module 7: Get people onto your list

The gift doesn't help anyone if no one finds it. Use this module to plan where and how you'll share it, steadily over time.

Fill in yourself

VISIBILITY

Where can you place the link to your lead magnet that you haven't already thought of?

CONTENT THAT LEADS THERE

Write one post that leads to the gift, based on the formula from the lesson.

30-DAY PLAN

Fill in a simple sharing plan for yourself for the next 30 days.

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Where can you place the link to your lead magnet that you haven't already thought of?

Write one post that leads to the gift, based on the formula from the lesson.

Fill in a simple 30-day sharing plan for yourself.

Checklist for Module 7

- ☐ The link is in my profile and on my website.
- ☐ I have a plan for what I'll share over the next 30 days.
- ☐ I have considered one collaboration or one referral I can ask for.
- ☐ I share naturally, not pushily.

This module's step

Share your lead magnet somewhere you haven't shared it yet, today.

Module 8: Keep the list alive

After the welcome series, the list needs regular contact to stay warm. Find a rhythm you can actually keep up over time.

Fill in yourself

FIND YOUR RHYTHM

Weekly, every other week, or monthly? Which rhythm do you think you can actually keep up?

ONE MONTH

Fill in the plan for one month: week, topic, value, CTA.

WRITE PERSONALLY

What characterises an email from you that people actually want to read?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Which rhythm (weekly, every other week, monthly) do you think you can actually keep up?

Fill in the plan for one month: week, topic, value, CTA.

What characterises an email from you that people actually want to read?

Checklist for Module 8

- ☐ I have chosen a realistic sending frequency.
- ☐ I have a simple plan for next month's emails.
- ☐ My subject lines are clear and enticing.
- ☐ I write personally, as if to a friend.

This module's step

Plan the next four weeks with the email template, it only takes 30 minutes.

Module 9: From subscriber to customer

It's okay to sell to your list. Use this module to build a natural customer journey and write your first sales email.

Fill in yourself

THE CUSTOMER JOURNEY

Sketch out your own customer journey, from free gift to a relevant product.

SALES EMAIL

Write a draft of a simple sales email for one of your offers.

SEGMENT

Which interests or groups should you segment your list by?

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Sketch out your own customer journey, from free gift to a relevant product.

Write a draft of a simple sales email for one of your offers.

Which interests or groups should you segment your list by?

Checklist for Module 9

- ☐ I have at least one relevant offer ready for my subscribers.
- ☐ I have written a sales email with a clear structure.
- ☐ I have considered segmenting the list by interest.
- ☐ I feel comfortable selling to my list.

This module's step

Send one valuable email this week that naturally leads towards an offer.

Module 10: Measure, improve and keep growing

You don't need to measure everything. Use this final module to choose the numbers that matter, and lay out a simple 90-day plan.

Fill in yourself

THE NUMBERS

Which numbers will you track monthly going forward?

WHERE IT STALLS

Where in the journey (view page, open email, click, buy) do you think most people drop off for you right now?

90-DAY PLAN

Write down one concrete task for each of the next three months.

Write straight in the boxes, or paste the question into Claude or Nathalie and let it help you along.

Reflection

Which numbers will you track monthly going forward?

Where in the journey do you think most people drop off for you right now?

Write down one concrete task for each of the next three months.

Checklist for Module 10

- ☐ I have set up a simple monthly measurement.
- ☐ I know which step in the journey needs the most improvement.
- ☐ I have a 90-day plan ready.
- ☐ I'm celebrating having made it through the whole course!

This module's step

Set a reminder to check your numbers one month from today.

Your list is under way

You don't need to see the whole staircase to take the first step. Come back to this workbook whenever you need a little nudge, reuse the templates, and check things off as you go.

Start small

Pick one module, and use it this week. It's allowed to be simple.
